

"BIG 3" NAMED TO TAKE OVER RELIEF DRIVE

REICH BUILDS MORE U-BOATS, BRITAIN SAYS

Cabinet Calls Conference To Consider New Development

(By Associated Press)
LONDON, April 27.—(Authoritative British sources asserted today that Germany has begun building submarines in violation of the Versailles treaty, and disclosed that the British cabinet intends to consider this new development, probably early next week.

The government meanwhile was in communication with the Berlin embassy. "There is no doubt," said one source close to the government, "that Germany has again broken a part of the Versailles treaty."

Called Flagration Violation
"It is an exact repetition of what happened with the land forces, and an even more flagrant violation."

Plans were expressed that Germany's new action may affect the naval talks with the Reich which have been virtually fixed for the second week in May. It was pointed out that in any case the action may receive "the most serious consideration."

British officials apparently were taken by surprise by this latest news on Hitler's part, one official saying "we have hardly had time to consider any action yet."

It was understood that submarine warfare was not discussed during the recent conversations between Hitler and Sir John Simon, the foreign secretary.

Twelve submarines of 250 tons each are now reported under construction in German shipyards. In defense of this action, Germany admitted that they are entirely defensive and have no considerable cruising range.

"Orders have been placed with German shipbuilding firms for the construction of a number of submarines, which she is forbidden to possess," said The Herald.

The Versailles treaty specifically limited the German navy to six battleships, six cruisers, 12 destroyers, 12 torpedo boats, but stated that submarines were inadmissible for commercial purposes.

Kiwanians To Hold E. Liverpool Rally

More than 200 guests from Lisbon, Salem, East Palestine, Columbiana, Leetonia, Wellsville, Toronto, Steubenville and Mingo Junction are expected to attend a 10th division meeting of Kiwanis clubs in the Mary A. Patterson memorial hall, East Liverpool Monday night, May 20.

Plans for the rally were outlined at a luncheon Thursday in the Mary Patterson memorial by Lieut. Gov. Cecil K. Scott of Salem, who also exhorted a divisional membership campaign, in which 20 per cent increase is the goal.

He announced he would invite all division clubs, while a delegation from the East Liverpool organization also will visit the various groups. State and division officers are expected to attend.

A feature of the program will be an "all-Kiwanis night" address over a national hookup by International President William Carrington of Atlantic City. His talk will be preceded by a dinner at 6:30.

Suspects In U. S. Mail Robbery

In a police roundup, George Sargent, seated left, and Tony Campolo, inset, were held for questioning by postal and Akron, O., authorities in connection with the $72,000 U. S. mail robbery in Warren, O. According to police, Earl Viller, driver of the mail truck, identified Sargent as a member of the bandit gang that held him up. The men were taken to Warren, O., after being booked as "fugitives" by the Akron authorities. Detectives Cross and Deitz are shown standing.

TWO IDENTIFIED IN MAIL HOLDUP

Men Arrested In Akron Are Taken to Warren For Questioning

(By Associated Press)
AKRON, O., April 27.—Federal agents and detectives kept gangsters on the move here today as they searched the district for more suspects in the Warren, O., mail truck robbery Wednesday in which three men escaped with $72,000 in currency and more than $50,000 worth of government bonds.

Two men arrested here yesterday were held in Warren for questioning today as the hunt proceeded. Earl Viller, driver of the truck which figured in the robbery, identified one of the men as a member of the robber trio and partially identified the other.

Although $50,000 in registered bonds was recovered from a lake south of Akron Thursday, none of the $72,000 in currency has been found. One of the four mail pouches stolen was found with the bonds.

Four postal inspectors have joined federal agents and local authorities in the search here. Local police proceeded on the theory that members of Detroit's purple gang were connected with the crime.

Ten men were brought in during the roundup yesterday and Detective Sergeant Vern Cross said one of the places raided was the headquarters for the Yonnie Licavoli gang of Toledo.

One of the two men held in Warren today was arrested as he sat at the wheel of his automobile on a downtown street. No charges were placed against the two men, but they were taken immediately under heavy guard to Warren.

COLUMBIANA, April 27.—The April meeting of the Columbiana Parent-Teacher association will be held Tuesday evening in the high school auditorium, the regular meeting date having been changed due to the spring school vacation.

The program will be presented by the fourth and fifth grade in charge of Misses Alberta Windle, Lois Rolter and Marjorie Dieffenbacher.

The program will feature a play, "The Train To Loohtown," with the following taking parts: Roger Miller, Jack Wahms, David Holloway, Jimmy Fitzpatrick, Teddy Detwiler, Lella McCarty and Mary Nell Chaddock. Dick Jackson and a chorus of 12 boys will sing several numbers, while Lois Ann Dewalt and Philip Horton will do tap dancing.

Eva Weingart gave a piano solo and Ruth and Letha Venable sang a duet, "The Isle of Capri." The next meeting will be held May 10.

A "Fire Bird"

COUNCIL BLUFFS, Ia., April 27.—It was a fire bird, not a fire-bug that fired the home of Mrs. Mabel Gallagher of Council Bluffs, Va. Chief J. N. Cochran said the blaze was started by a sparrow carrying a lighted cigaret into its nest in the attic.

SALEM SECTION TO GET HIGHWAY AID THIS YEAR

State Route 14 Project Depends On Federal Action

FUND ALLOCATION IS CHIEF FACTOR

If Secondaries Get Preference, Route 35 Will Be Repaired

Columbiana county's 1935 road program is certain to include one of two important state highways leading into Salem.

State Route 14, which takes the preference over others on the state program, will be reconstructed east of Salem this year unless federal aid specifies certain restrictions on the state. In that event, the state funds will be used to widen and reconstruct that section of State Route 35 from Salem to Walton's corner road into Hanoverton.

Biechele Outlines Plans
Such is the word given the Columbiana County Motor club by Fred L. Biechele, division highway engineer with headquarters in New Philadelphia.

Reports had reached Salem during the week that funds might not be available for Route 14 this year, although it is No. 1 on the program. To learn the present status of the highway program, Manager A. P. Morris and Directors A. E. Beardsmore and R. W. Hawley of the county motor club had a conference with Biechele at his office in New Philadelphia Friday.

The division chief told the club members that the state is very anxious to rebuild the section of Route 14 from Salem to Columbiana because of the excessive maintenance cost of the present brick road. It is planned to build a concrete road, raising the grade in some places and eliminating some curves on this section.

Awaits Federal Action
The state highway department is marking time until the federal government allocates its highway funds. It is possible, according to reports reaching the department, that this allocation may specify that the state's share must be spent on county and township roads. In that event there would not be enough to place on the Route 14 project.

Deming Co., Foremen At Annual Dinner; Program Is Feature

Friday evening the Deming Foremen's club held its annual chicken dinner at the Willow Grove Grange hall, North Georgetown rd. Wives and friends of the members were invited guests.

After the dinner a novel entertainment was presented in the form of a radio broadcast. George Turner acted as announcer and commentator in regular Walter Winchell style. Orchestra selections by the Deming "Marvels," conducted by Ralph Odey; cornet solo by Paul Snyder; vocal solos by Ralph Snyder; and violin duets by Ralph Odey and Edwin Dawson were interspersed with some "apex" comments by the announcer.

A play entitled "Mrs. Hitchcock's Husband" produced many laughs. The characters were: Mrs. Hitchcock, played by Florence Davis; Mr. Hitchcock, by Orville Stone; Emma, the maid, by Bernice Smith; Ted Manners by Robert Chandler; and the policeman by Leonard Potter.

Following the entertainment, the game of bingo was played and many useful and amusing prizes were awarded.

Wellsville To Ask City Manager Vote

WELLSVILLE, April 27.—Steps to call a vote at the November election on a city manager form of government for Wellsville were taken today, when petitions were placed in circulation by union pottery workers.

William Aughinbaugh said the movement is being sponsored by local union No. 24, National Brotherhood of Operative Potters.

Aughinbaugh, a ceramic worker, announced that 350 petitioners, or 10 per cent of the vote cast in the city last November, will be required to obtain a ballot place.

The petitions will be filed with the Columbiana county board of elections, probably in May.

The proposal was defeated several years ago by a small majority.

Spelling Contest Is Grange Feature

Wilbur Sangree won the spelling contest held during Goshen grange meeting Friday night. The program also included a reading, "The Old and the New," by Mrs. Fieldhouse, and a solo, "Welcome, Glad Welcome," by Deborah Berry.

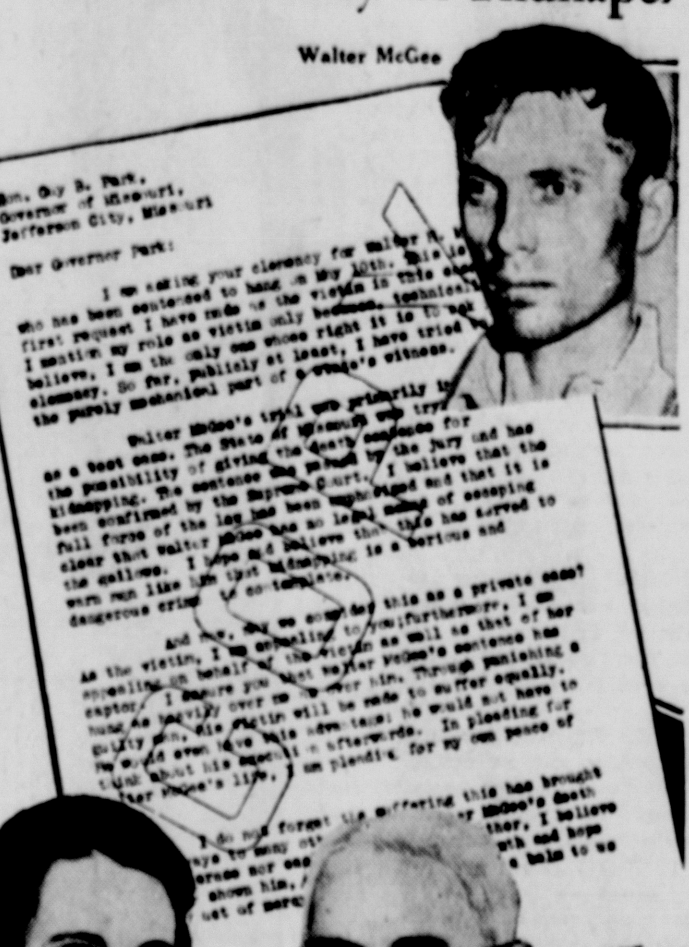

Eva Weingart gave a piano solo and Ruth and Letha Venable sang a duet, "The Isle of Capri." The next meeting will be held May 10.

Victim Asks Mercy for Kidnaper

Walter McGee

Gov. Guy B. Park, Governor of Missouri, Jefferson City, Missouri

Dear Governor Park:

I am asking your clemency for Walter McGee, who has been sentenced to hang in my state. This is the first request I have made in the history of my office. I believe, I am the only man whose right it is to make a plea, publicly at least, I have tried to do so privately. I have had McGee in my home and I have seen him as a man, not as a criminal.

Walter McGee's trial was primarily to see as a test case. The state of Missouri has tried to make a test case out of this case. I believe that the state has been successful in this. I believe that the state has been successful in this. I believe that the state has been successful in this.

As the victim, I am asking for clemency for Walter McGee. I believe that the state has been successful in this. I believe that the state has been successful in this. I believe that the state has been successful in this.

On the shoulders of Gov. Guy B. Park of Missouri rested the decision as to whether or not the life of Walter McGee, convicted kidnaper of Mary McElroy, would be spared following Miss McElroy's plea for executive clemency. The 26-year-old Kansas City girl, daughter of the city manager, in a letter to the governor urged that McGee's death sentence be commuted to life imprisonment.

DETECTIVE DIES IN GUN BATTLE

Cincinnati Police Fight It Out With Payroll Robbery Suspects

(By Associated Press)
CINCINNATI, O., April 27.—A veteran detective lay dead today, victim of a gun fight with payroll robbery suspects' while police, reporting an alleged confession from one man, guarded another near death from machine gun slugs and worked on the theory it was an "inside job."

The victim was Sergeant John A. Cameron, winner in 1908 of the Carnegie hero medal. He died in a hospital last night with bullet wounds in his head and abdomen.

Shoe Cobbler Wounded
Guarded was Lindsey G. Cyrus, shoe-cobbler from Morrow, Ohio, whose heart was grazed by one of five bullets which struck him an hour after Cameron was wounded, as officers trapped him near his home, 28 miles northeast of here.

A suspect registered as Leland English, 30, confessed, Sergeant George Schattell of the homicide squad said, that he and Cyrus were lying in wait for a payroll officer of the Crane-Breed Casket company, here, when Cameron and three other officers appeared. Detective John Schmitt was wounded slightly during an exchange of shots at the scene.

English was captured as he attempted flight and today faced filing of murder charges, Schattell announced.

Police had information today that led them to believe the attempt was the result of "inside information." Capt. Walter V. Fricke, announced. An arrest was imminent, he indicated.

Strange Car Sighted
Police were summoned when Crane-Breed officials reported a

MAHONING MILK RULES LIFTED

State Market Commission Acts; Charges Failure To Comply

COLUMBUS, O., April 27.—The state milk marketing commission suspended today the rules and regulations of the Mahoning valley milk market area.

The action was taken on the ground that producers and distributors had failed to comply with and to carry out conditions of their agreement and had failed to agree on a proposed revision of the rules.

The area includes Mahoning and Trumbull counties.

Once before the commission suspended rules for a marketing area in the state. Similar action affecting Seneca county was taken several weeks ago when the commission said it found regulations were not being observed.

City Engineer Frederick S. Barkhoff today reported that the entire floor of the cement culvert of the Friends meeting house of the West-town Friends school for the first time in its history.

As Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt finished her address yesterday, the blaring music of a jazz band "filling in" the time came from the radio.

Members of the committee appeared agitated at first, then several smiled.

"Well, that's the first music ever heard in this building," one man said.

Date Is Set For Literary Contest

Nuns, Monks Held By Hitler In Drive On Christianity

By MELVIN K. WHITEHEAD, Associated Press Foreign Staff.
BERLIN, April 27.—Nuns and monks, some described as aged and feeble, from 14 different Catholic orders were held today for foreign exchange violations as the cries of speakers in a great anti-Christian German faith movement echoed through the Reich.

The members of the religious orders were arrested during a wholesale purging of Catholic institutions for alleged violations of the exchange laws.

Many of the nuns who were arrested, Catholic sources said, have been in solitary retreat for more than five years. They scarcely know who Hitler is, it was said, and "most certainly never heard of the Devisen (foreign exchange) law."

Elderly and sickly mothers superior were among those arrested. Some were brought to Berlin and put in the women's prison.

This action was disclosed as Catholics and stamping feet greeted last night's anti-Christian meeting in the great Berlin sports palace when Jacob Wilhelm Hauer declared that Christianity is not the true religion of Germans.

Speakers Elected For Commencement By High Students

Harry McCarthy, Don Hammill, Mildred Woods and Joyce Chatfield have been selected by members of the graduating class of Salem High school as speakers for the graduation exercises in June.

Four speakers were voted by the student body instead of only two as on last year's program. The change came about when Superintendent E. S. Kerr announced that McCarthy and two other students, Lucille Hilliard and Dorothy McConnell were tied for first place as honor graduates.

Columbiana Boiler Co., Builds Tanks

COLUMBIANA, April 27.—H. Nicholas, inspector for the Altoona works of the Pittsburgh Testing Laboratories, is in Columbiana for several weeks overseeing the construction of five large tanks at the plant of the Columbiana Boiler Co.

The plant, which had been operating two shifts most of the time during the past two years, recently added a third shift. The shop continued to operate on a three-shift basis for more than a year after the beginning of the depression.

Chevrolet Workers Turn Down Proposal

(By Associated Press)
TOLEDO, April 27.—Striking workers of the Chevrolet Motor Ohio company plant here returned to their picket posts today after flatly rejecting a company peace offer which included a five per cent wage increase.

Although the strikers voted in effect to continue the strike, they did not close the doors to conciliation efforts. By unanimous vote they requested W. E. Knudsen, executive vice president of General Motors to negotiate with the strike committee of the United Automobile Workers Federal Union local here.

Francis J. Dillon, American Federation of Labor organizer for the automobile industry, described Knudsen as "one of the most capable and honorable men in the industry."

The vote against accepting the company's offer was unanimous. Ellsworth Kramer, president of the union local, estimated attendance at the meeting at between 1,500 and 1,800.

Page Pershing!

BEVERLY HILLS, Cal., April 27.—Having a time with Congress wants to pay it, the soldiers want to receive it, but every person wants it paid or received according to his own particular plan.

Looks like soldiers can't agree any more than congressmen can. Better put Gen. Pershing in charge again, he was the only man we ever had that could tell a soldier, and a senator, too, where to head in.

Don't hold those dimes, quarters and halves, you may have, too lightly, for by tonight Mr. Roosevelt may have thought of a new price for 'em.

THE MUSIC'S THE THING

In Salem's community band, the city may well boast of one of the most unique organizations of its kind in the country.In every sense of the word, it is a community band.
The musicians are recruited from almost as many different classifications as there are members.There is no age limit. Any youngster capable of raising a horn to his lips, or any olderster who still feels the musical urge, is eligible to join.The band bars no race, no creed, no color. To paraphrase Shakespeare, "the music's the thing."The band's leaders are Ray Bartholomew, director, and Atty South Metzger, the manager, both of whom give their time and service to the movement without remuneration.Now the band is planning its first annual concert, to be held May 8 in the high school auditorium. Half the proceeds will be used in purchasing equipment and music for the band. The other half will be given to the Kiwanis club, which is aiding in plans for the concert, for use in beautifying and improving Centennial park.Plenty of entertainment value is promised by Director Bartholomew. The community should support in every way possible its community band.

STOP, LOOK, LISTEN

Most railroad grade crossings are reasonably safe.
Beckless driving may make any crossing perilous, but safe driving is adequate protection at probably 95 of all railroad crossings.Such a statement can be contested, of course. It will be contested bitterly by persons who have been visualizing elimination of all railroad grade crossings, an impossible undertaking.One authority, who estimates $30,000 to $40,000 as the average cost of eliminating grade crossings, says more than $9,000,000,000 would be required to eliminate all of them. On the other hand, 5 percent could be eliminated for half a billion.A railroad executive remarked recently he could reduce accident hazards at crossings on his railroad 50 percent by eliminating only 5 percent of the crossings. The relationship sounds reasonable. All automobile drivers realize there are relatively few crossings where the hazards are unusual. Most crossings of that type are notorious.They should be eliminated. High speed automobile traffic and grade crossings do not go together.
Their separation is inevitable. The amount of time required will be determined by the amount of money available. Eventually, danger from crossing accidents will be minimized.The work relief bill provides $200,000,000 to make a start on the elimination of grade crossings. It isn't much, and it won't make a great showing. Still, the thing can't be done all at once, contrary to the shouts of persons who would like to believe it can.
It's tempting to believe "Stop, Look, Listen" might be a good slogan for them to adopt despite the fact it's becoming archaic as a means of protection at railroad crossings.

GOING UP

"Don't bet any money on what we do," Treasury Secretary Morgenthau advised inquirers who asked him early this week about another increase in the price of silver. Thursday morning the country learned that President Roosevelt had boosted the American buying price for silver to 77.57 cents an ounce. On April 10 the American price was raised to 71.11 cents. It had been 64.5 cents since the latter part of 1933, when the government announced a policy of being prepared to meet any advance in the world price that placed domestic silver producers at a disadvantage.Americans didn't know then what it was all about, and they don't know now. The one thing plainly evident is that the United States treasury is playing Santo Claus to silver speculators. The government is pledged to raise the price of silver to at least $1.29 an ounce. The price is bound to go up, which explains as simply as possible exactly why it is going up. It is an interesting demonstration of market pegging, with public money as working capital in an international gamble.Theoretically, something good will come of it. A monetary panacea, heavily adulterated and a curtailed dose, is being poured down the national throat.
The silver bloc, pleased with the benefits it is getting, is standing by to await results. It is willing to take credit for whatever success may come out of the experiment, to give advice, to explain to visitors
what should happen—in short, to do everything, except to tell exactly the ingredients of the panacea or to accept responsibility if anything goes wrong.The new price of silver is 77.57 cents today. Tomorrow it may be higher. So what? So, it proves the government can boost 35 cent silver to twice that much simply by keeping a jump ahead of the world
price. It's interesting, but what good can it do.

THE STARS SAY

For Sunday, April 28

Sunday's horoscope is a rather conflicting one, with forecast of lively conditions, fair progress and advantageous change. But these are accompanied by auguries of misfortune, treachery and private distress. Itis possible that an elder may cause this anxiety or bereavement.Those whose birthday it is may have a year of contradictory experiences, with promotion or benefit in employment, an advantageous change or journey.A child born on this day may be studious, serious and inclined to be mystical, novel or visionary.

For Monday, April 29

Monday's astrological forecast is a very propitious one, holding auguries of excellent progress and achievement, with many opportunities for attaining high goals and aspirations.Those whose birthday it is may be assured of a year of success in launching important projects of a nature to stabilize the fortunes and enhance prestige and popularity.A child born on this day may be ambitious, aspiring and efficient, reaching high place in power, prestige and popularity through diligence and merit.

O. O. MCINTYRE

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

NEW YORK, April 27—No dazzle is quite so captivating as one of those smart and intimate restaurants filling at the dinner hour. It is ultra gesturing with the blinds up. Everyone is out to impress the other fellow. And there are not many who have not bedecked the headlines.How artful the head-waiter's grandiose sweep of the human chaff behind the bosques of palms! Done so neatly no one ever takes offense. Always somehow at the auspicious moment a sinuously tragic Paula Tanqueray aways down the aisle. And at a front table the inevitable Portia with a long cigarette holder.There's the taut little group trying to appear languid over a midnight sailing. The fellow with a pampas hair-cut who got in by mistake and thinks he's with a blonde. The booming lady someone has erroneously told is even more amusing than Mrs.
Pat Campbell.The ubiquitous Cholly Knickerbocker never fails to join someone for coffee and an earful. Forks poise in mid-air as Kit Cornell adjusts her silver fork to depart. Perhaps a bon vivant such as Col. Creighton Webb stops to chat a moment with a Vanderbilt. New York at its New Yorkiest.But despite New York's glossy sophistries, no stage character has caught the Manhattan mind in the manner of the ornery Jeeter Lester in "Tobacco Road." This whimsical and ruthless old human tumble-bug has been drawing his vulgarities for more than two years. As an unwashed, illiterate and turnip eating Peer Gynt of the back-woods, he has outlived every perfumed pet of the boulevard drama.
There's perfect analogy in the fact that Bobbie Burns' rhymes about a mouse will probably live longer than Keats' ode to a Grecian urn. What a columnist Burns would have made, by the way.James Huneker was able to whip up a lagging appetite by visiting one of the glittering delicatessen that abound on 14th St. A drop-in before dinner and he'd go home in wolfish hunger. The psychology of suggestion, of course. Potato salad in a wooden bowl, a platter of cream cheese, jars of flooded pickles, bright yellow cheese and sliced pink salami attractively displayed will send any dyspeptic out ravenous. O, yes, and those stuffed tomatoes garnished with mayonnaise!The accomplished gourmet usually tops a heavy meal—he's off on food again!—with a cafe parait.
There's always room for this fluffy entremet creation of Brillat-Savarin. But only a few places know how to serve it. I think of the Victor Hugo in Los Angeles and the Colony in New York. Liza, the Harper's Bazaar fashion artist, once introduced me to profiteroles as served to the King of Spain when he stopped at the Meurice. I had eaten many versions of profiteroles but none comparable to these and I made such a pig of myself I've never cared for them since.It is warming to see finished actors such as Tullio Carminati get on with a flourish in the movies. He was a leading man for Duse and Bernhardt and can dramatize handing his hat and stick to the butler.
A dilettante to the tips of his kid gloved fingers. In contrast to a rather tedious run of jaw-breaking, bone-crushing tough guys, he's as refreshing as a shower on a parched day. In many ways, too, his rise is a cheer for strugglers up. He began his Hollywood career without being able to speak a word of English. And has brought a suave gentility to his roles not seen since the John Drew days.

By Dr. Royal S. Copeland
New York City"Test Meals" Determine Disorders
Of StomachRECENTLY I TOLD you about
"hyperacidity" and its effects. It was pointed out in that article that with an increased secretion of hydrochloric acid in the stomach, certain digestive disturbances are almost certain to occur. Today, I want to tell you about the relationship between the quantity of hydrochloric acid and ulcers of the stomach.Under normal conditions, certain glands found in the lining of the stomach secrete hydrochloric acid.
This fluid aids in the digestion of food. But if the amount is reduced below a certain point digestion is impaired. Likewise, if the quantity of the acid is increased there will be dyspepsia, indigestion and other disturbances.Ulcer of the stomach is a common disorder. It is usually associated with hyperacidity but the actual cause is not known. Since ulcers found are always associated with an excess in the secretion of hydrochloric acid, it is safe to assume that hyperacidity plays an important part in their formation.

New Wisconsin Dean

Frank O. Holt

Charges that "free love" went on among faculty members at University of Wisconsin were made by Chester D. Snell, who was outcast as dean to make way for Frank O. Holt, above. Snell's scandal charges were made at a state senate investigation of alleged "red" activities in which the ex-dean was accused of having a part at the university.the stomach, complains of distress or real pain after meals. The pain may be mild and is usually described as "discomfort", or "stomache".
In other cases it may be so severe as to lead to collapse. At times the pain may radiate to the heart and lead to the suspicion that the trouble is really a heart attack.Nausea and vomiting may be among the symptoms in advanced cases of ulcer of the stomach. When the disease has been present for a long time and the ulcer breaks down, vomiting of blood occurs.
Then, certainly, there is need of immediate medical attention. Delay is dangerous because it may permit the ulcer to rupture. If this actually happens, immediate operation is the only means of saving the life.A characteristic sign of ulcer of the stomach is the relief of pain which follows the taking of small quantities of food. Even a dish of crackers and milk may do it. The most effective relief is obtained by taking an alkali like baking soda or magnesia. This is due to the neutralizing of irritating action of the food and alkali on the excessive acid content which irritates
the ulcer.

Use "Test Meals"

It is now possible accurately to determine whether pain and discomfort are due to hyperacidity, to ulcer of the stomach or to some other abnormality. This is accomplished by what is called the "test meal" which determine the degree of acidity. To this is added another accurate means of determining certain facts: Examination
by the X-ray enables the physician definitely to determine the presence of an ulcer. He can discover its size and location and determine the form of treatment that is likely to be most beneficial.I am often asked whether ulcer of the stomach can be cured without an operation. It can in many mild cases. It is surprising what can be done by proper eating of proper foods. It is only in a case where the ulcer is large, with a great deal of erosion of the stomach wall that operation is the safe method of cure.

Springfield Mass.Pike County Judge Carried
Olive Branch In Pen FightGeorge D. Nye Credited With Bringing Thomas-Davey Battle to "Draw" Conclusion

(By Associated Press)

COLUMBUS, April 27.—Common Pleas Judge George D. Nye of Pike county, whose influence among the Democrats of his own bailiwick is supreme and carries considerable weight in state party circles, is credited with bearing the olive branch that resulted in the draw fight between Governor Davey and Warden P. E. Thomas of the state penitentiary.The judge still has on his hands,
however, a battle with State Representative W. H. Whetso (D., Lawrence) over construction of Lake White in Pike county through highway department cooperation. Whetso is sponsoring a legislative investigation of the construction on the theory that public funds are being used to promote a private enterprise. The committee making the investigation has heard evidence and viewed the premises but has not yet made a report.

May Get His Job

George E. Eppley of Cleveland may yet get that job of director of public works, the position Governor Davey has selected for him, before the end of the governor's first year in office. T. S. Brindle of Ashland, who is holding the position by a reappointment given him by former Governor George White made a few days before he retired from office, is anticipating taking a position as chief engineer for the Scioto-Sandusky district.When it was learned that Brin-dle's reappointment as public works director was good for a whole year, Eppley was shunted about from one job to another and now is holding a position as a member of the state liquor board. He is expected to step into the public works department,
as soon as Brindle goes out.

Heart Balm Suit

Sideline observers are wondering whether the action of the house of representatives in formally adopting Rep. Mrs. Blanche E. Hower (R., Akron) as its "mother" and her response by inviting 131 other members to be her dinner guests at a local hotel has any connection with her anti-heart balm bill now wedged in the house code committee, have been unable toMrs. Hower and Mrs. Alma Smith (D., Cleveland), who is sponsor of a similar bill also pending in the committee, have been unable toagree on which bill shall be given preference. The committee has indicated that it might recommend a bill with the women legislators as co-authors, but they can't agree whether it shall be "Mrs. Hower, Mrs. Smith" or "Mrs. Smith-Mrs.
Hower."Mrs. Hower insists that her name should come first because she was first to introduce a bill to outlaw breach of promise, alienation of affections, and similar lawsuits. Mrs.
Smith is as equally insistent that her name should come first because she was the first to introduce a bill to outlaw breach of promise, alienation of affections, and similar lawsuits. This is his first experience with legislative procedure, it being his first term.

Rose Backs Davey

At least one Republican legislator, Rep. Ed. S. Rose of Akron, is backing Governor Davey in his fight with the senate for new rugs for the executive office. Rose, denouncing the senate's action as a "shame," declared on the floor of the house
that he would not "vote to spend a
cent" until the governor's appropriations had been passed.Rose repeatedly lashed the senate's action as a "shame," declared on the floor of the house
that he would not "vote to spend a
cent" until the governor's appropriations had been passed.Charges that the relief administration was overloaded and that there were many "chiselers" on the rolls were hurled by the governor in his fight with Federal Relief

The Cold Finger Curse

by EDWIN DIAL TORGERSON

SYNOPSIS

Wealthy Violet Ederbank, a housewife, gives a housewarming party to her neighbors, June and Jimmy Kirkland, and their son, Gregory Valcour, a budding artist; dignified Douglass W. Courtney, a statistical expert; and Glenn Thurber, a newspaper reporter; Roger Ederbank, a specialty dancer, and his wife, Mrs. Ederbank, are also guests. Mrs. Ederbank's husband, Charles, a retired banker, lives in Canada. Long ago he gave up trying to keep pace with his wife. Unknown to Violet, her handsome companion and secretary, Price Merriam, is in the employ of her husband. Because of his wife's penitence for wearing a fortune teller's jewelry, Ederbank hired Merriam as her bodyguard and arranged for Violet to meet him. At the party Merriam has a premonition of danger. She is suspicious of the surly butler, whom she saw talking to a man hidden in a doorway across the street. Roger is to do a Zulu dance. In preparation for it, he has been to the Zulu house. The house lights are extinguished. Merriam floods the room with an eerie green spotlight and goes outside to see if Roger is ready. Drums begin to boom. Then Cupples informs Violet she is wanted on the telephone in her bedroom. Glenn has disappeared. He told Jimmy Kirkman he had to go next door for a minute. Merriam returns and the dance starts. Suddenly a blood-curdling shriek rends the air. Rushing outside they find Elsie, the maid, shuddering in terror. "It's Miss Violet!" she cries. "She's dead!" Violet had been gagged, chloroformed, and her jewels—worth over eight hundred thousand dollars—stolen. The victim's clothes closet had also been rifled. The police are puzzled by the appearance of cold cream on Violet's hands. Merriam is questioned and claims to have seen Violet going up to answer the phone when he went to see if Roger was ready. He then went to the kitchen to look after the refreshments. He says the kitchen was empty although Elsie, the maid, swore she was there at the time Mrs. Ederbank's telephone rang. At the time of the crime, Valcour had gone next door to get some paintings to show Mrs. Ederbank and Thurber had also gone over to telephone his office. Checking up on the trap door leading to the roof of the Kirkman house, the police learn that Thurber had used it a few days ago when he got up a radio aerial. Sergeant Darden next calls Cupples.

CHAPTER XII

"Who was it called on the telephone? Did you say?"

"Yes, sir. I did. They said it was the telephone office, and they had a message from Montreal for Mr. Ederbank."

"Which telephone office?"

"Why, they didn't say. I did not really don't remember that."

"Did you offer to take the message?"

"No, sir. I did that once, and Mr. Ederbank told me she preferred to take her own telegrams."

"That is correct," said Price Merriam as the sergeant glanced at him inquiringly.

"So you went downstairs immediately and told Mrs. Ederbank there was a call from the telephone office?" Darden resumed.

"Yes, sir."

"Were you in the habit of answering phone calls on Mrs. Ederbank's private wire?"

"No, sir. I was not," replied Cupples testily. "It was the maid's business to do that. But the phone kept ringing and I couldn't find her."

"She was not in the kitchen mixing drinks?"

"No, sir."

"Did you go there to see?"

"Yes, sir."

"And she was evidently not up there?"

"Evidently not, sir, or she would have answered the telephone."

"You have no idea then, where she was?"

"No, sir," said Cupples maliciously, "unless she was outside talking to a colored man who comes around."

"What colored man?"

"I don't know. He has been here for some time."

"There was a discreet rap at the door, followed by the appearance of Detective Mabry's head."

"Want to see me, Sergeant?" he asked.

"No, wait a minute—yes. Anything on that phone call? Was it one of the telephone offices?"

"No, sir. It was not. But there was a call on the lady's phone at five-twenty-one from Sheridan house—nine-four-seven. That number is at the house next door. It lived in the name of Thurber—"

"Come in, Mabry," ordered the sergeant peremptorily, and added: "Merriam: 'It looks as though I've been followed by a man who has been with somebody besides the telephone office.'"

"Great heavens!" exclaimed Merriam. "I can't believe that chap should be capable of such a thing. They were dead sure about it. They demanded the sergeant."

"Dead sure. Can't be any mistake. The call recorded itself on the automatic register at the exchange. You've seen the board—"

"I've seen it," said the sergeant, "and the auditors work from that in making out bills. If the phone just rang and wasn't answered, it doesn't matter, but the minute the receiver comes off the hook there's a record made of the call. They photograph the board—they don't even trust clerks to take down the number right—they take a picture of it so if anybody raises a howl about being billed for too many phone calls, there's the automatic register to show the record."

"Any operator listen in on this call tonight, by any chance?"

"No. Just a routine connection. But you've got the goods on Thurber in black and white."

"And Mr. Thurber such a nice-looking fellow, too!" exclaimed Cupples. "It just goes to show—"

"Did you recognize his voice?" interrupted Darden.

"Why, no, sir. But you see I was scarcely familiar with his voice."

"Mabry, take that fellow in," ordered the sergeant. "I want to talk to him before you leave, though. Take him upstairs to Captain Nobley right now and get him finger-printed. Tell Nobley I'd like for him to look over that ladder and trap door to the roof next door, too."

"He was one of the gentlemen who was in a hurry to get away, too," said Cupples sympathetically. "Thurber was?"

"Yes, sir, he said the lady he had brought to the party had to go, and he wanted to take her home. She lives in East Sixty-Third Street."

"What's her name?"

"Miss Clarken, I believe. Miss Marjorie Clarken."

"Clarken? Hm! Those people have seeds of money, haven't they?"

"I believe so, yes, sir. I should judge so."

"Yeah. Now, Cupples—about this colored man you said had been coming around here—could you describe him; would you know him if you saw him?"

Cupples shook his head. "I'm afraid not, sir. I've had a glimpse of him twice, that's all. Each time they were standing out front—there's an iron grille gate, you might have noticed, the tradesmen's entrance. We kept this gate locked at night, but open during the day."

"It's locked now, if anybody got in through there tonight somebody let 'em in."

"Yes, sir. Well, when I saw the maid Seever and this man the other day they were standing inside the open gate, under the stoop. I told her she had no right to have her friends coming around like that. She said it was business, but none of mine."

"I'll make it mine," promised the sergeant. "Cupples—He eyed the butler sternly as he paused."

"Yes, sir."

"Who turned out the light tonight, in order to give this dancer Duane a chance to slip in and hide in the library fireplace?"

Cupples answered readily and candidly: "Why, I did, sir. That is to say, both Mr. Merriam and I did. You see, the arrangement was that I was to put out the hall light, then Mr. Merriam was to switch off his floodlight and spotlight in the library. But I noticed there was still a light on in the top floor hall and I thought at the last minute I had better step downstairs and switch off all lights in the house. I left them off only a minute, sir."

Darden considered this quietly. "All right, Cupples. When you go out send that colored girl in to me. And tell Detective Mabry I want to talk to this man Thurber when I get through with the maid—also this Miss Clarken he seems to be running with."

"Yes, sir."

The colored maid was not so violently agitated under the second questioning as she had been previously in the bedroom of her murdered mistress. She was not controlled however, to the point of composure. She sat twisting the ruffled hem of her apron as Darden fired queries at her.

"Who is this man," demanded the sergeant harshly, "who came around to the house to see you tonight?"

"Elsie gave a start of surprise. 'Wasn't no man!' she declared with overdone vehemence. 'Wasn't no man come around to see me tonight.'"

"Don't lie to me!" shouted Darden. "I've got a witness who saw you let him in."

"Cupples telling lies on me again," cried Elsie.

"Who was the man? Come clean, now, or by heavens you'll go for a ride and something worse!"

Elsie repeated her vociferous denials, but gradually weakened under the verbal assaults of the detective. Presently she burst into tears and wailed out the truth:

"It was Johnny Hankins—but he didn't do nothing wrong matter. I swear to the Lawd he didn't. He just come to see me a minute about—about something."

"Who is Johnny Hankins?"

"Jus' a friend of mine—hard-working, honest boy."

"What does he do?"

"Drives a truck for Lacey's."

"Delivers things half-past twelve at night, does he?"

"Naw, sir. He just happen' to be down this way."

"What did he want to see you for?"

"I just give him some—some money, Five dollars."

"Where does he live?"

"Hundred Thirty-Second Street. Twenty-six West."

Darden stepped to the door and called Detective Samuels. "Go get this fellow," he ordered after brief explanations. "Search the place where he lives. Check his alibi—if he's got one."

The sergeant continued questioning the negro maid but could wring from her no further admissions. She stoutly affirmed that Johnny Hankins had come to see her only for a short time; that she had talked to him in the areaway under the stoop for perhaps three or four minutes, and he had gone peacefully on his way after he had extracted from her the loan of five dollars.

"What time was it when he left?" asked Darden.

"Bout a quarter, twenty minutes after twelve. I ain't sure."

"Where was he going?"

"Going home, he said. I spec' he was going to shoot craps, though, mister, if you ask me."

"All right. You stick to this house. Don't attempt to leave it, understand?"

"Y-yes, sir," quavered Elsie, and left the room with terrified alacrity.

Glenn Thurber, the next summoned, seemed puzzled and amused when ushered in by the grim Detective Mabry.

"What's the big commotion, Sergeant?" he asked of Darden. "What is there I can tell you about this business?"

"A lot," replied Darden curtly. "Where were you when this woman was killed?"

"Why, I don't know precisely when it occurred, Sergeant, but from what I've heard the others say it must have been while I was next door. I missed Roger Duane's dance because I suddenly thought of something I had to telephone my office about."

"Yeah? Just what was that?"

"Why, it was some advance matter that I had written, and the release for publication had to be sent out to the newspapers tonight by telegraph. That was all."

"Yeah? Didn't take you long to telephone, eh?"

"Oh, no, just a couple of minutes."

"And you came right back?"

"No. I found I was out of cigarettes, and went to the cigar store at the Seventh Avenue corner and bought some. I was just coming in the front door of this house when the colored girl began screaming about somebody being murdered."

"Yeah? Why did you have to go next door to telephone? Why couldn't you use one of the phones in this house?"

"I couldn't have heard anything. Sergeant—the noise was terrific."

Spy Activities Increase Among European Nations

While Europe's diplomats occupy the stage with their parties over the arms crisis, an elaborate international espionage system is working behind the scenes. Spying and counter spying takes place on a huge scale. Some indication of the extent of such work was given when an international ring was recently uncovered, of which Mr. and Mrs. Robert Gordon Switz were accused of being members. Baroness von Berg and another woman went to the executioner's block in Berlin because of spying activities. A new type of professional "free lance" spy has come into being who markets his facts to the highest bidding nation whether or not it is his own country.

Gives Prison Talk

Judge H. W. Hammond gave a talk on the London prison farm, which he visited some months ago. The London farm of 1,700 acres has a population of about 1,600 men, the fortunate ones being those who are assigned to actual farm work. Judge Hammond said he further stated that the chief reason the parole board pardons so many men is to make room for the other criminals who are being sentenced, because state institutions already are greatly overcrowded.

The Columbiana Mothers' club met Monday evening at the home of Mrs. R. M. Gaver, Stanton ave. The president, Mrs. C. P. Esterly, presided at the business session. Mrs. Richard Orr read a paper on "Jealousy" and Mrs. Hosea Pepple one on "Quarrelling and Fighting." Music in charge of Mrs. Donald Zellars was heard.

Friends here will regret to learn of the serious illness of a former local citizen, Mrs. H. O. Newell of Columbus. Mrs. Newell underwent a major operation at the University hospital three weeks ago and remains in a critical condition.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Koch expect to move soon from Middle st. to the Solomon Koch property, South Main st. Mr. and Mrs. Willis Miller and family, present occupants of the Koch house, will move to the Wilkinson property, Fairfield ave.

Mr. and Mrs. John Ryan, Jr., are moving next week from their log cabin at Valley Links to the rooms in their newly erected clubhouse on the Leontonia rd. Mr. and Mrs. Homer Thomas, who have been residing in the Wilkinson house, Fairfield ave., will occupy the Ryan cabin.

Class To Meet

The Young Ladies' Bible class of the Presbyterian Sunday school will hold its regular business and social session Wednesday evening at the church with mothers of members as guests.

His Majesty's Wardrobe

Baby Likes to Be Dressed Up, Too, in the Latest Garb

By MARIE MAROT

IN THE MIDST of all the to-do about the new spring fashions, we pause to give a thought to his (or her) Majesty, the Baby, who also likes to be dressed in the latest garb once in a while. This beautiful bassinet is covered with fan-pleated flounced pink chiffon with a gorgeous pillow and coverlet rich with embroidery. At the bottom of the sketch is a youngster dressed in a thin wool dressing sack embroidered with animals, just the right costume for totsie exercising. Above him is a babe in an elaborate frock of batiste with much tucking and lace insertion. Then there's a baby all dressed up in a silk coat and cap with lace and chiffon frillings. Another adorable babe wears a delicate nainsook every-day frock trimmed with embroidery and lace insertion. The bonnet is silk-embroidered.

HOME MAKING HELPS

NOW POSSIBLE TO BUY PLASTER BY THE YARD
SOMETHING NEW in the decorating world is plaster that you can buy by the yard, grand plaster that comes plain and in all sorts of designs as well.

The feature of it is that you can put it up and alter your room completely at a very small cost. Have it designed so that you get just what you have in mind for that room no one ever could beautifully. The plaster will do the trick.

That long, narrow hall also will seem much nicer when you give it a plaster chair rail and plaster moldings to form a dado. And if you want to give the dining room a new look, invest in a good scenic wall paper for the upper walls and have a plaster chair rail.

Columns Charming
Plaster columns, one on either side of an indifferent fireplace, will lend the room new dignity and charm. Such columns also might be used to add charm to a series of windows that just have narrow wall strips between them. We saw a plain window made beautiful by a handsome plaster awag, mounted on beaver board. It gave a gracious empire look to the simple curtains.

A Greek key plaster design over the door is another nice idea. So is the laurel design found in empire furnishings. To beautify any room there are round plaster moldings about a quarter of the height of the average room. These come in all sorts of designs. They are ideal to give a certain definite decoration plan to a room.

Can Color to Suit
Plaster medallions and ornaments can give such charming effects and they aren't difficult to handle. Once up, the plaster can be left its original white or can be colored to suit the taste. And the best of it is that when you are tired of the plaster decoration, it can easily be removed and another design substituted.

We have seen beautiful plaster ropes placed in frame around unframed prints and pictures and the effect was charming. Then we have seen a plain garden house turned into a Greek temple by the use of plaster columns and ornaments. We also have seen lovely little plaster shells and containers for plants on porch walls. The whole idea is a grand one that will answer many problems of the home decorator.

Services In Our Churches

HOLY TRINITY ENGLISH LUTHERAN

East State st., at Woodland ave. Rev. George D. Keister, pastor. First Sunday after Easter.

Sunday school, 9:45 (Psalm 19:7-14), Lewis Hirst, Supt.

The Holy Bible has no rival and equal. There is no word or authority upon earth that surpasses it. It is the Word of God and all attempts to erect any other word to take its place have failed. The literary beauty of the Bible is recognized. Writers of books have learned much from this sacred volume. The Bible is an inspired book. The writers wrote as they were moved by and carried along by the Holy Spirit. From the mind and pen of man there could not have come such a Book of Life unless there had been Divine help. The Bible with its personal appeal has the power to get down into one's life and living. It will be a blessing to the tiny child as well as the aged in their declining years. It is the one book that is known, loved and studied around the world.

Morning worship, 11. Sermon, "Recognizing Christ." Sacrament of Holy Baptism for children.

Christ was very well known in and around the places, where His work and ministry were performed. The large multitudes that gathered about Him, were plenty of proof that He was not a stranger among the Jews. It was a different attitude that developed after the burial of the Savior. Many now had given up all hopes of ever seeing the Christ again. In fact when He did appear, He was not at first recognized. The eyes and minds of His disciples were not able immediately to behold Him as the risen Lord. However the hour of recognition came. They feasted upon His presence. Mental pictures of Christ have been constructed by artists and painters. Into these likenesses have entered the personal and national influences. They may be far from correct. Christ was recognized not so much by His appearance, but by His acts. Thus would He be recognized today. His sacrifice, love and kindness would not be mistaken as a mark of identity.

Lutheran league 6:30. The topic, "Going Strong After Easter" will be in charge of Martha Schmid.

The Junior Lutheran league topic is, "Christ, the Continuous Companion," leader, Doris Brunner.

Dorcas society meets Thursday at 2:30.

ST. JOHN A. M. E.

East Third st., near Hawley ave. J. B. Cooper, minister; Roy Clarke, Supt.

Sabbath school, 9:45 a. m. topic, "The Holy Scriptures." Lesson text, Psalm XIX:7-14; 11 Tim. III:14-17. As we study the lesson may our sense of reverence for God's word increase.

God's Word converts the soul, gives wisdom, rejoices the heart, enlightens the mind—endures eternally. We can depend on the promises of God, which are ever broken. No class group of the world's financiers, can create a depression in the economic affairs of the kingdom of God.

11 a. m. Evangelistic message, "The Source of Life," St. John 11:25, Jesus said—"I am the Resurrection and the Life; He that believeth in me, though he were dead, yet shall he live."

Our Lord is the life; He not only saves from death, but destroys death. We are not saved by our conscience or wealth or poverty—not even by our religion. We are saved by Jesus Christ, our Lord. Apart from Him we have no access to God or the kingdom of heaven.

4 p. m.—Vesper service.

"PROBATION AFTER DEATH" is the subject of the Lesson-Sermon which will be read in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, on Sunday, April 28, 1939.

The Golden Text is: "God will redeem my soul from the power of the grave; for he shall receive me" (Ps. 49:15).

Among the citations which comprise the Lesson-Sermon is the following from the Bible: "Now this I say, brethren, that flesh and blood cannot inherit the kingdom of God; neither doth corruption inherit incorruption." (1 Cor. 15:50).

The Lesson-Sermon also includes the following passage from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy: "Universal salvation rests on progression and probation, and is unattainable without them. Heaven is not a locality, but a divine state of Mind in which all the manifestations of Mind are harmonious and immortal, because sin is not there and man is found having no righteousness of his own, but in possession of the mind of the Lord," as the Scripture says: "(p. 291).

Astronomy Aided by Aluminum

A minute fraction of aluminum is hailed by science as the most valuable metal in the world. It was an almost atom-thin coating of aluminum sprayed electrically on the 100-inch mirror of the world's largest astronomical telescope at Mt. Wilson observatory, Pasadena, Cal. The range and efficiency of the telescope is increased about one-third by the aluminum coating. Thus, the elaborate equipment was increased in value by enormous extent by the discovery which enables science to penetrate millions of miles further into space. Milton L. Humason, one of the world's foremost experts in long-range astronomical study, predicts revolutionary results from the device.

Hints On Health By Red Cross

Health From The Sun

These April days are not too early to begin your baby's sunbaths. By summer you can have your child protected from the hot sun by a healthy coat of tan. A safe way to start is to open a window on the south side of the house and let the baby lie in the direct rays of the sun. Sunlight through glass does no good. Start with ten minutes a day and increase the time three minutes each day. This sun treatment will make a healthy baby even healthier. Consult your family physician about further details.

Bill Passes House

COLUMBUS, April 27.—A bill designed to aid the city of Massillon in purchasing its privately owned water works was passed by the house today, 84 to 0, and sent to the senate.

PITTSBURGH, Mass.—Nero, who supposed to have fiddled while Rome burned, didn't have so much on the Lansboro Volunteer fire Department. A house owned by Mrs. George Briggs of Chicago burned before the Lansboro fire truck could be located. The truck was fetching freshly fallen snow for a maple sugar eat sponsored by the firemen.

A Review of the Day's News

By Arthur Brisbane

KANSAS CITY, Mo.

INTERESTING DAY HERE in Kansas City, which as you know is Kansas City, Mo. The other Kansas City, across the state line, is Kansas City, Kan. When this writer first knew it Kansas City was a different city. Mr. Corrigan's one-mule street cars supplied the only transportation unless you wanted to hire a two-horse "hack."

The one-mule cars ran between the two Kansas Cities, which was convenient for inhabitants because in Kansas City, Mo., you could drink legally, but there was no convenient gambling. In Kansas City, Kan., there was plenty of gambling, faro especially, but no legal drinking.

This condition enriched Mr. Corrigan, who went into horse-racing. This is a great city now, second railroad center in the United States, with tall skyscrapers that would make the tower of Babel look like a bungalow and astonish the Dickey brothers, with their fine large diamond studs and fine money, if they could come back, driving their bunches of long horn cattle up from Texas.

MUCH GREATER surprise would fill those Dickey brothers and old Col. Coates, who ran the Coates House and the Coates Opera House opposite the hotel, on the bluff overlooking the flats, in a beautiful, modern hotel "just like New York" charming young ladies, really "ladies," sitting on high stools at a semi-circular bar, singly, in pairs, or sometimes with a man, tiny feet on the brass rail.

That is the outgrowth, here as in New York, of the prohibition speak-sav. It is all right, the bartender in white shirt sleeves, "vest" of brilliant scarlet, assures you.

"It is the thing with ladies."

KANSAS CITY has a magnificent new five million dollar municipal auditorium and is starting a new four million dollar city hall. It has four hundred thousand population, or six hundred thousand if you are willing to include Kansas City, Kan., and Lawrence, as New York drags in Brooklyn, Bronx, Staten Island, Long Island City.

What is more, Kansas City supports a philharmonic orchestra, now in its third and most successful season, planning double the number of concerts. Not many eastern cities can do that.

BUSINESS is good in the stores. The Kansas City Journal-Post is doing better in circulation and advertising than ever. J. L. Williams, from that newspaper, which prints this column, drops around to ask "what do you know?" and says:

"I don't know how it is in the East, but nobody out here is licked." Nobody shows the slightest indication of being "licked."

This city grown big is a city of aggressive men, as it was when it was young, and sidewheel boats came up the river to the landing, and occasionally, police officers would pursue some bad men up the street, past Judge Dobson's law office, shooting as they pursued.

If the bad man succeeded in getting over the high wall, around Miller's clubhouse, he usually escaped. Peaceful citizens dived down basement stairs, not interested in the shooting.

WHEN A cyclone came down the river and struck the sharp curve just above Sixteenth st. and went on its way west, Miss Cora Baker from St. Louis, perhaps the most beautiful girl in St. Louis, except Miss Chouteau, or Miss Hazeltime, went driving and galloping after the cyclone in a two-horse hack with a young man from New York.

No danger, cyclones never turn around.

Persons who want anything know The News is the Want Medium in this vicinity. So read it.

In Temperance Drive

New national temperance drive is being launched by Council for Moderation of which Everett Colby (above) is leader. Not prohibition, but sobriety, is its objective.

SPORTS Chatter

"BABY JACK" TORRANCE, the enormous southerner who tips the scales at more than 300 pounds and whose hobby is tossing a 16-pound shot prodigious distances, is one of the most remarkable athletes in modern sport history. Despite his tremendous size, Torrance is remarkably agile, and his versatility in the various fields of athletic endeavor is really something to shout about.

The man who is big enough to be a tackle and an all-southern football center at Louisiana State college. Jack was undefeated in intercollegiate boxing matches, and plans to become a professional fighter after the 1936 Olympics.

Amazingly powerful, Torrance never exerted himself unduly on the football field because two fellows were killed while playing against him in high school. (Did you hear that, Mr. Baer?)

He is no muscle bound weight man, either. This walking whale can run the 100-yard distance in 10 1/2 seconds, which is not exactly a snail's pace for anybody.

Torrance's greatest fame has come from his shot putting achievements, which are unrivaled in the annals of iron ball tossing. His world's record of 57 feet 1 inch is called the greatest athletic standard ever established, and Jack is confident that he will surpass that astounding mark before long.

One of the secrets of the gargantuan southerner's phenomenal shot-putting success lies in the fact that he has absolutely enormous hands, out of all proportion even to his oversized frame. Shaking hands with this guy is like grabbing hold of a catcher's mitt.

If the New York Giants fail to finish at or near the top of the National league standing—and their adherents stoutly maintain there will be no failure this season—it apparently won't be the fault of Bill Terry's pitching "big four."

The quartet already has made a highly promising start even though Fred Fitzsimmons has been belted out twice.

New Mark

THE MASONIC alleys reverberated last night to the tumbling of pins as Joe Reese, bowling with other members of the Masonic club, collected a total of 266 to set a new high mark for the season.

Reese's mark will give City league bowlers and others something to shoot at when the season gets under way next fall.

Among the leading scores for the season coming to a close are Mike Thid's 259 in the Mullins league; a 257 by Reese; and a 255 rolled by Ted Detwiler of The News City league team in an exhibition match.

RANDOM NOTES: While fishing at Pine Lake this week, two Washington, D. C., men, Woodward Boston and Maurice Whiter, caught a fish weighing close to six and one-half pounds. The favorite pastime of these champion girl swimmers like Eleanor Holm Jarrett and Katherine Rawls is to rib each other with phony telephone calls, offering movie and radio contracts.

Louisiana State Individual Stars Shine In 41st Penn Relay Carnival

About 3,000 Athletes Meet In Events To Break Old Records

"Baby Jack" Torrance Tosses Shot 62 Ft., 1/4 In. For New World Record; Columbia Wins 440-Yard Relay Event

By ALAN GOULD, Associated Press Sports Editor.
PHILADELPHIA, April 27.—The 41st Pennsylvania relay carnival featured by the balmy weather and the biggest upheaval in years among defending champions, drew together nearly 3,000 schoolboy and college athletes today for the concluding track and field fireworks in a fresh assault upon existing records.

By default or defeat, last year's headliners have already given way rapidly to a new set of winners.

Indiana, a sensation last spring, was not on hand to defend either the classic one-mile or the two-mile relay championships. Manhattan, already shorn of one relay crown and minus its ace runner, Bill Ray, because of illness, appeared unlikely to retain the four-mile title.

Cornell university, which yielded the 440-yard relay championship to Columbia's flippers yesterday, faced keen competition in defense of both the 480-yard shuttle hurdles and 880-yard relays but the Ithacans looked like strong contenders again for the four-mile trophy after a lapse of years.

Louisiana State, whose individual stars captured three events on the opening half of the program, including a new world record toss of 62 feet 1/4 inch by "Baby Jack" Torrance with the 12-pound or "schoolboy" shot, aimed to lift one or more of the major relay crowns today.

The L. S. U. one-mile team, anchored by Glenn "Slats" Hardin, was favored over Manhattan, Syracuse, Pitt and other eastern rivals.

Hardin bruised a leg when he fell down while winning the 400-meter hurdles yesterday but was slated to carry the baton in both relay feature races. "Slats" was headed for a record in the timber-topping event when he tripped over one hurdle in the stretch, then jammed into the next barrier and fell flat. He lost nearly all the 20-yard lead he had gained over Robert Jackson of Lehigh, but scrambled up and went on to win handily.

Notable Relay Victories
He was timed in 54.7 as compared with the meet record of 53.3 and his own world record of 50.6.

Maryland and Michigan State scored notable relay victories yesterday. The Maryland sprint medley relay team, victor over the strong Columbia and Pittsburgh teams, registered the first major triumph for the old liners in the history of the carnival. Michigan State's victory in the distance medley was the first major conquest for the Spartans here since 1927, and emphasized their strength for today's four-mile race, in which Michigan's Butler relay winners also are highly regarded.

Michigan's versatile Negro, Willis Ward, who lowered the carnival record to 14.5 seconds for the 110-meter high hurdles, was entered in the 100-meter dash and high jump today. Ward faced keen competition in the sprint from Herman Neugass of Tulane, latest southern sensation; Ben Johnson of Columbia, the national indoor champion, and Earl Widmyer of Maryland, 1934 carnival winner, among others.

Mt. Union Track Team Will Meet Case Athletes

ALLIANCE, April 27.—With another week of hard practice behind them Mt. Union track performers are prepared to offer a stiff brand of opposition to the Case Scientists on the home field today.

General feeling in the Methodist camp is that performances will be improved, over the showing made last week in Wooster in the meet which the Scots won by a top-heavy score. Last Saturday Case ran second to Baldwin-Wallace in a triangular contest which included Hiram. In that meet the winning marks were consistently lower than those set up at Wooster on the same afternoon, the only outstanding effort being made by Lukes of Case who cleared the high jump bar at 5 feet, 11 inches.

Against Baldwin-Wallace and Hiram, Case placed in every event but the 220-yard dash, indicating a type of steady point-gathering which will push Coach Geis's men to the limit. Judging from a comparison of marks made last week, the Methodists and Scientists stack up fairly even in most events.

The gun for the first race will be fired at 1:30.

Cascarella Pitches Two Games of 7 Hits But Loses Them Both

Philadelphia Athletics Hurler Needs to Discover A Little Control; Passes Lead Bases, Fate Steps In

By HUGH S. FULLERTON, Jr., Associated Press Sports Writer.

If he can discover a little control to mix in with his otherwise potent pitches, Joe Cascarella may turn out to be one of the hurlers coming Mack is looking for to help the Athletics into one of the upper places in the American league standing.

So far this season, Cascarella had pitched two games, both against the Yankees, allowed seven hits in all and lost both because of passes. Last week he dropped a four-hit game, 3-1, walking all the runs in first. Yesterday Joe granted only three hits in seven innings, fanned seven rivals and saw the A's wind up on the short end of an 11 to 2 score.

One of the blows and two passes loaded the bases in the second inning and Frank Crosetti cleaned them with a homer. Two more walks led to another run in the seventh and when Cascarella was taken out for a pinch hitter the Yankees did some serious hitting to pile up six more runs against a trio of successors in the eighth.

The triumph put New York above the .500 mark for the first time this season but failed to alter the standings. The Yanks remained unadlocked with Washington, which walked the Red Sox 11 to 3 when Manager Joe Cronin failed to support his star southpaw finger, Moe Grove. Cronin made three of Boston's five errors.

Chicago's slugger White Sox slipped past Boston into second place, slamming out an 11 to 4 victory over St. Louis in the combination of Ted Lyons' six-hit flinging and five home runs, including Zeke Bonura's fifth of the year.

Cleveland had no trouble retaining the lead, burying the Tigers under an 11 to 3 count. The Indians scored runs in big bunches while Willis Hudlin improved after a bad start.

Darkness Hits Duel
The Giants and Phillies furnished the highlights of the National league program, ending with the score tied at 5-5 when darkness halted the battle in the 13th. John Moore belted two circuit-blowers, making it five for the season, and tied the score for keeps with his second in the eighth inning.

Brooklyn's league leaders had a narrow escape when Tom Zachary weakened toward the finish after Boston errors had given him an early lead, but Dutch Leonard came to the rescue and the Dodgers came out ahead, 5-4.

The Cubs and Cardinals, tied for third place, each won a 3-2 triumph. Chicago beat Cincinnati despite St. Johnson's five-hit hurling while the Cards went eleven innings against Pittsburgh before they got the run off relief hurler, Bill Swift.

Manager Chuck Driesen of the Reds was chased from the field in the sixth after taking a swing at Tex Carleton, Cub pitcher.

SALEM AREA TO GET ROAD FUNDS

State Route 14 Project Depends On Federal Action

which is a state road, but the money would be diverted to Route 35, a state road already designated for federal aid.

Thus, Bechele pointed out, Salem is sure to have either 14 or 35 improved this year. Already County Engineer Lloyd C. Kirk, who is also resident engineer for the state highway department, has made a survey of Route 14 from Columbiana west to the Fairfield township line. This week he was instructed to make the survey from the Fairfield township line west to the corporation line of Salem.

With the survey completed, it will be possible to get this work started without much delay once federal funds are allocated. This is expected within the next week or ten days.

Should sufficient funds not be available for the entire project, it is planned to build the road westward from the Columbiana village line to a point just west of Washingtonville this summer. The remaining strip into Salem would be on the program for next year, in that event.

A Paying Proposition

"Mississippi" Brings Bing Crosby and W. C. Fields In Southern Story

The musical hit "Mississippi" opens at the State Sunday. This picture has a grand cast, including Bing Crosby, W. C. Fields, Joan Bennett and Queenie Smith. It is a story of the old south in the days when the women wore crinolines and the hot blooded southern men were always fighting duels. Into this somewhat dangerous country comes Bing Crosby, a peaceful northerner. Misunderstood and called a coward by the southerners. Bing goes on a river show. Boat, captained by W. C. Fields who has a weakness for liquor and the telling of "tall" stories. These stories reveal the captain to be a dead shot, a man-killer and afraid of nothing. Under his tutelage, Bing develops into a gun-fighter, two-faced man. Up and down the river he is known as the singing terror. Joan Bennett is Crosby's love interest and she is very lovely in period gowns.

The Cabin Kids, five colored children, who were so well liked by audiences a few months ago when they appeared here in a short, do some rhythm shouting in this picture.

New Mystery Story

Tuesday and Wednesday at the State finds another double bill. The first picture is "The Case of the Curious Bride".

This stars William Warren and Margaret Lindsay. This is the second Clue club mystery, based on the story by Stanley Gardner. The first story was "The Case of the Howling Dog". Again Warren William is the detective, and Margaret plays the part of the "curious bride".

The other show in the double feature bill is "It's a Small World", with Spencer Tracy and Wendy Barrie.

This is the first time Tracy has had a straight feature length comedy role. Miss Barrie comes from England, her last role there being Jane Seymour in the English production "Henry the Eighth". This pranks picture concerns a lawyer and a beauty who meet in a head-on collision and fall in love.

Jack Holt in "Black Moon" comes for Thursday night only. He is supported by Fay Wray in this black mystery laid in the jungles of Haiti.

"Gold Diggers of 1935" is shown Friday and Saturday at the State. Every one is familiar with First National's yearly Gold Digger musical review. This has Dick Powell in the lead with a huge supporting cast. Three very catchy tunes from the show are "The Words are in My Heart", "I'm Going Shopping With You", and "Lullaby of Broadway".

Tonight at the State theater is the last showing of the sophisticated yarn, "Star of Midnight", starring William Powell and Ginger Rogers.

strange car cruising in the neighborhood. E. T. Mossman, treasurer of the firm, was due back momentarily, they said, with salaries and wages for 150 employees.

The "hunch" was confirmed a few hours later. Under a "lie detector" English reportedly told Sergeant Schattler he and Cyrus were waiting for "a man who would get off a street car with a bundle of dough".

Tipped to the identity of Cyrus, Detective Chief Ernest D. Kirgan and a picked squad of men sped to Morrow, and with Warren county officers were on the scene less than five minutes when he appeared.

Attempting to "shoot it out," he was felled by five of the 20 machine gun bullets fired into the rear of his machine.

Police at first believed him dead—a bullet wound over the heart—and it was not until he was admitted to a hospital that signs of life were found.

Sgt. Cameron won the Carnegie hero award in 1906 for his work in saving a score or more women and girls from a fire which destroyed the Neave building in downtown Cincinnati. A fresco worker employed in the building, he led the way to safety.
